Many people well informed on general affairs confess that they do not understand the tariff question. They have a general idea of what it means but no distinct knowledge of the effect of its application and the details of the law. The New York Tribune is supplying this much needed information in a series of articles. In a recent article it says that "for more than a quarter of a century this question has been turned aside in popular discussions. The Republican party made the tariff in 1861, only one Democrat voting for it in the Senate, and fourteen against it; and in the House only two Douglass Democrats favored the bill, while all the other Democrats, forty in number, and only one Republican, voted against it. By similar votes many bills of improvement or revision have been passed, greatly strengthening and broadening the protective system; Republicans always supported them, and Democrats always opposed them, almost unanimously. At each revision, too, the Democratic party has fought for amendments designed to destroy the efficiency of the system in some particulars, and at times they have succeeded, as they did when the wool duty was cut down. Every time the Democratic party has obtained a majority in the House it has tried to tear down the tariff. Under the leadership of Mr. Morrison, of Illinois, it made a desperate effort in 1870, but earned its political resistance forced him to abandon his bill. Under the leadership of Fernando Wood another effort was made in 1878, but after prolonged agitation had greatly prostrated industry, the bill was finally killed on motion of General Garfield, 113 Democrats and only 7 Republicans voting for the mischievous bill to the end, while 115 Republicans and only 19 Democrats voted to kill it.

In 1882 the Democrats elected a great number of members upon distinct pledges that they would vote to cut down the tariff to a revenue basis. Last winter, when Congress assembled, there was a bitter fight between the extremists, who supported Mr. Carlisle, and men who desired more moderate changes, led by Mr. Randall. When Mr. Carlisle was elected as a free-trader, and selected Mr. Morrison, with his known record, as leader of the House, an agitation began which speedily prostrated all branches of industry. Mr. Morrison soon introduced a bill which threatened to cut down duties one-half. In fact, if there was protection enough to secure wages of $1 per day, Mr. Morrison wished to cut it down so that it should secure only 80 cents per day, or else close the factories entirely. This bill, and the alarm about it, produced such disorder in the industry that the great manufacturers have not yet recovered from its effects. It was finally killed, May 6, but 152 Democrats and only three Republicans voted for the measure to the last, while 118 Republicans and 41 Democrats voted to kill it.

Finally three members of the Alumni, trustees for the prosperity of their Alma Mater and thinking that perhaps the Board was not fully informed as to the character and reputation of Prof. Latham preferred to charge him about last commencement time, and asked that they be given an opportunity to prove them. The 50th anniversary of the Board and the Morrissey were held on the place. Last Saturday the evidence began and continued till 4 P.M. Tuesday, including lengthy night session. Several affidavits, letters and newspaper articles were filed. A great many witnesses were examined. The prosecution had only three, but did not call them. Mr. R. G. Gallaher took down the evidence for the use of the Board. Tuesday evening the master was left for the Board's consideration.

The Board decided last night that the charge against Prof. Latham were not proven and he was requested to be more circumspect hereafter, that no cause should arise for any such trouble in the future.

I say unqualifiedly that all who have written that I was drunk, etc., have committed perjury.

The above is the statement of Prof. Latham made on oath after the evidence against him had been taken. Below are some of the gentlemen to whom he referred: R. G. D. Johnson, John D. Stevewy, H. F. Smith, W. T. W. Barb, D. Adams, E. H. Anderson, Rev. S. L. Finney, Col. Jas. Evans, Wm. Wagner, Jas. A. Hayes, F. M. Parnell, Geo. O. Baker, Jas. D. Davis, W. L. Proctor, Jas. L. Lazier, W. W. Houston, Wm. Dancer and others.

It makes every humanization and to see individuals seek relief as is given them by the use of bitters, kidney medicines and other nostrums. The first few doses may make them feel better on account of its stupefying ingredients, combined with some strong cathartics and diuretics that are used to draw off the heat and purify the body and liver. The only cure for dyspepsia, nervous debility, aches, pains, rheumatism, sore, tririty and digestive troubles, is to make the blood rich, red and pure, by using Guyott's Yellow Dock and Saraparilla, a remedy widely endorsed by physicians who have examined into its composition and effects.

The Rev. Joseph Cook calls himself a non-denominationalist. If he had had time he would have used a long word.
